

2-party division enlivens county lawmaking

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Once Republican dominated, and later Democratic inclined for many years, the Madison County government now is functioning with a Democratic legislative body that is a bit restless over Republican control of all legal advice, prosecution and litigation.

The division of power is creating spirited and sometimes acrimonious County Board deliberations.

Those in the center of the stage include two powerful Republicans, State's Attorney Donald Weber, no fan of Democratic elected or appointed officials, and outspoken Assistant State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith, adviser to the County Board.

Smith-involved in several board meeting controversies last week—pointedly reminded the board that the state's attorney staff can file any legal proceedings it wishes to pursue, with or without County Board sanction.

He said he does intend to obtain prior board approval for lawsuits, and a Democrat replied that he had better, or risk losing funding appropriations for the office of state's attorney.

Although that comment and reply were made seriously, there also is frequent lighthearted banter between the Democratic majority and the Republican minority on the 29-member legislative body.

Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer wondered out loud last week whether Republicans will be able to find enough polling place judges for the next election, and a GOP partisan conceded that it is difficult for his party to find enough poll officials in some areas.

Republicans joshed back by noting that Democrats currently have few individuals who have passed the appraisal test required of potential Board of Review members.

Chairman Hagnauer replied that "we're having trouble finding people who can pass the test—both Republican and Democratic." A Democratic board member responded that "all the Republicans are in the state's attorney's office."

When Hagnauer, a Granite City Democrat, momentarily overlooked a committee report by Homer Henke, a Moro Republican, Hagnauer joked that he had forgotten "there were any Republican committee chairmen."

Despite the humorous side of the meeting, undisguised friction was visible.

Board Member Harold "Cotton" Roberts interrupted an attempted reply by Attorney Smith at one point, asserting that he did not want to hear it and was interested instead in the viewpoints of elected board members.

Board Member James R. Heil, an attorney, voiced frequent disagreement with legal opinions from Smith.

At one point, Hagnauer explained to the board that Smith was speaking with proper authority because he had asked for and received Hagnauer's permission to talk.

On another occasion, when a board member said Smith was giving inappropriate and unwanted advice, Smith interjected with a request for a "full hearing" on the allegation against him.

A member questioned Smith's practice of writing many long letters about varied county governmental subjects without specific authorization to do so.

Smith generally conveyed the impression that, although numerically outmaneuvered in the meeting room, he felt more than able to uphold his end of any argument.

He prevailed when he sought to detail a Special Sewer Committee effort to authorize an attorney to possibly file suit against a contractor. Smith warned that anything less than total victory in such a suit might make the board members personally vulnerable to monetary damage claims.

But he lost in his push for twin collective bargaining elections affecting county governmental employees. The board opted for a single election to be held next month.

The long-simmering dispute over whether and how to change county unions has made many county officials uncomfortable, and Hagnauer told the board it has been "no fun" for him to walk around the Courthouse during a period of seemingly endless delay in setting the procedural ground rules. He noted that the union competition has been an issue for nearly six months.

Smith said it may be an unpopular fact that the state's attorney office has such sweeping jurisdiction, but that this nevertheless is a fact.

He cited as an example his objection to the Quad-City sewer area governing committee utilizing H. Carl Runge as

River Fest at SIUE dropped

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and the Nelderander organization have agreed not to hold Mississippi River Festival (MRF) concerts this summer.

The decision was announced Friday afternoon following a meeting of Dr. James R. Buck, director of development and public affairs for the University, and Wayne Nelderander, representing the organization which assumed operation of MRF three years ago.

Dr. Buck said it also was agreed that major improvements are required at the MRF site before the public will support a wide range of popular programming. He said the Nelderander organization will be looking at various means of supporting a site improvement project, including the possibility of a collaborative effort involving local businesses and industries.

The outdoor music festival has been held each summer since 1969 on a hillside on the University campus. It has a permanent stage, but seating has been limited to approximately 2,000 temporary chairs and space for blankets or portable chairs on the lawn.

Dr. Buck said the decision not to hold MRF this year was a mutual agreement based on the condition of the facility. He said he concurs with Nelderander that major improvements must be made before the site will have popular appeal for audiences of all ages.

Dr. Buck explained that a recent tour of Nelderander's new Poplar Creek theater near Chicago persuaded him that site improvements are the key to a successful festival operation. Describing the Poplar Creek facility as "spectacular," he said the theater has 7,000 seats under roof and a lawn capacity of 13,000. Diversified programming is offered.

"A similar facility and the programming offered would be a positive addition to the University and the region," Dr. Buck said.

New GC township multiplier 1.229

In an effort to avoid a county-wide property assessment multiplier, the Madison County Board of Review has issued tentative township multipliers for all townships in the county, including a 1.229 multiplier for Granite City Township (all of Granite City).

Venice Township has a tentative multiplier of 1.1275 and Chouteau Township's assessments are to be multiplied by 1.2146, while Nameoki Township will have a negative multiplier of .9633, according to the Board of Review's suggested plan.

Home and property assessments would be increased by multiplying the assessment (one-third of market value) by the multiplier. In the case of Granite City Township, property assessments would rise 22.99 percent if the proposed 1.229 multiplier is imposed.

A public hearing on the proposed township multipliers is to be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday, June 10, in the county courthouse at Edwardsville.

The township multipliers will be necessary to avert a county-wide multiplier of 1.1275, which the Department of Local Government Affairs has suggested, unless township multipliers bring the county's overall assessment up.

New Briarcliff drainage plan ready

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Plans for a program to drain the Briarcliff area in northwest Granite City without creating an unsightly holding pond are in the hands of two railroads and the county's Community Development office, City Engineer Monroe Brewer has informed City Council.

Brewer predicted the "red tape" will be sorted out and the program could be under construction by late this summer, if the entities involved cooperate in getting the approval.

He said obtaining easements from the railroads is tough enough and added, "Community Development further complicates it with their cruel and unusual requirements."

However, if all the paperwork is completed quickly, flooding, such as was seen in the Briarcliff area after heavy rains last week, may be history by next spring, he predicted.

He explained that the city has had to "scrap" two plans which called for holding ponds near the Briarcliff area, due to objections from the residents and difficulty obtaining easements, and now has a plan to pump water away from the area north along the railroad tracks and into a 36-inch city sewer on the east side of the tracks about three blocks north of Pontoon Road.

Initially, the city hoped to put a holding pond in the "hobo jungle" portion of Lueders Estates, near the railroad tracks, but residents south of the proposed holding pond objected loudly at public hearings on the plan.

Then, the city formulated a plan to run a ditch behind the homes abutting the railroad tracks and put a holding pond on the Willard farm near the end of Briarcliff Drive, which could be pumped into the city storm sewers at times when the sewers were not in full use.

That plan was scrapped when the residents said they did not want a ditch behind their homes.

Under the latest plan, which was developed by the Reitz and Jens engineering firm of Clayton, Mo., and has been sent to the railroads and to Community Development for approval, a lift station would pump water from Briarcliff and would pump it through a force main between the two sets of railroad tracks north to near the Fina service station on Nameoki Road. The pipe then would go under the eastern set of tracks and connect to the 36-inch city storm sewer which goes directly to the Nameoki Ditch.

Brewer said it was hoped to use an open ditch between the railroad tracks, which could have allowed some water storage, but the Norfolk & Western Railroad and Conrail objected, saying they would prefer an underground pipe.

A pipeline agreement for a limited amount of time would be easy to obtain from the railroads, Brewer said, but noted Community Development rules stipulate that if Community Development grant funds are to be used for the work, the property on which the improvements are to be done must be owned by the city or the city must have a permanent easement.

That stipulation has caused some difficulties in completing the new North Granite drainage project, where a pipe has been installed under the railroad tracks with a pipeline agreement.

Brewer said the problems there are "strictly paperwork," but said the work done, thus far, in North Granite was

Summer park program 'biggest ever'; Wilson Park pool to open Saturday

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

The scope of activities planned by the Granite City Park District for the 1981 spring-summer season is enormous and will touch all segments of the community—regardless of age level, interests or lifestyle.

Programs range from movies and concerts, both vocal and the "big band" variety, to almost every summer sport and to recreational playgrounds for grade school children.

Inaugurating the busy season ahead will be the opening of the Wilson Park swimming pool at 1 p.m. Saturday, May 30.

Pool hours will be from 1 p.m. until 8 p.m. daily, with the facilities available for rental from 9:15 p.m. until 10:15 p.m. Saturday through Thursday for private parties at a cost of $50.

Admission fees this year for park district residents with identification cards will be 65 cents for children through grade 12 and $1.15 for adults. Non-residents and those without cards will pay $1.25 and $1.75.

Senior citizens (55 years and over) are invited to swim without charge between 10:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. Monday through Saturday.

Young people, 13 to 19 years, also have a "special time" and may participate in Teen Nite swimming from 8:30 p.m. until 10:30 p.m. on Fridays. Season passes to the pool for residents with park IDs cost $35 for families, $12.50 for children and $20 per adult.

On Monday, June 8, the annual Park District summer playground program will begin for youngsters in grades 2 through 6.

Arts and crafts, swimming, trips movies and games are among the activities to be offered at four centers—Nameoki, Webster and Wilson schools and Lincoln Place Community Center—where children may register at 9 a.m. June 8.

The seven-week program is free, but each child must pay a $3 insurance fee, which covers all park-activities through April 1982.

Girls' volleyball is among the new programs being offered this summer for girls 8 through 13 years old, which includes instruction, as well as game participation.

Classes will be held for seven weeks, beginning Monday, June 8, at the Wilson Park ice rink from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Gymnastics and tumbling classes for both boys and girls in grades 1 through 12 will start at 9 a.m. Monday, June 8, at the Nameoki Recreation Center, Ames and Franklin avenues.

Classes will continue for seven weeks

Monday through Thursday at times assigned by the instructor for various proficiency levels.

Tennis lessons will be available at the Wilson Park courts, also beginning June 8, with instruction offered to girls on Monday and Wednesday, boys on Tuesday and Thursday and adults on Tuesday nights.

Registration for adult tennis will take place at 7 p.m. Monday, June 8, with the

Balanced BAC budget

A balanced budget is believed to be attainable for Belleville Area College in the July 1981-June 1982 fiscal year.

Acting President Bruce Wissore presented an $11.3 million tentative budget to the Board of Trustees last week. It is up 15 percent over the estimated expenditures of $9.8 million in 1980-81.

The document was prepared through use of modified zero-based budgeting techniques, he added. Dr. Wissore recapped highlights of the past fiscal year as follows:

—Presentation of the tentative budget in time for board approval before the July 1 start of the fiscal year, a first in BAC history.

—Another first, the initiation of zero-based budgeting.

—Also a first, open budget hearings. Introduction of quarterly budget reviews for the first time.

—Establishment of a building repair-and-replacement budget.

—Savings that put a three-year, $1 million budget reduction plan $30,000 ahead of schedule.

—Service to 14 percent more students than anticipated without spending beyond the budget.

—"Significant delay" in the need for a tax increase in the district; and —A marked improvement in student statistics, including an enrollment increase, a decrease in dropouts and a rise in grade-point averages.

"It was the best year in the financial history of the college," Dr. Wissore said, "and the best year in terms of student statistics. If there is a correlation between budget procedures and student statistics, it's a positive one."

The college has experienced the highest enrollment in its history for three consecutive semesters. Nearly 90 percent of students who enrolled in fall 1980 classes completed them, lowering the dropout rate by 36 percent over the previous semester.

The mean grade-point average rose from 2.84 to 2.9 over the preceding year, it was related.

"BAC has taken the lead among Illinois community colleges in conducting open budget hearings," Vice President for Administrative Services James J. Hines said.

"I don't know any other community college in this state that's going through this process," Hines said, adding that examination of the budget department-by-department has led to a more comprehensive understanding of the school's needs.

The budget will be posted for public examination, and a public hearing on it will take place at a special meeting of the BAC board at 7 p.m. June 24 in

State supports Hospice program

By MARY RICHARDS of the Department of Public Health

More and more people are reacting negatively to the way dying patients are cared for in institutional settings. This dissatisfaction is being evidenced by the growth of the hospice movement in America.

In recent years, there has been a return to acceptance of death as a part of the life process rather than as a failure on the part of the medical profession.

When there is no longer any clinical hope for recovery, patients and their families are being helped to accept death and to recognize the stages of rejection, anger, depression, grief and acceptance that a patient experiences.

The hospice program is designed to care for the patient in several situations including home care, institutional care and inpatient care. Regardless of where the patient is cared for, the general goals of all hospice care remain the same — to provide the dying patient with relief from distressing symptoms of disease, the security of a caring environment, expert care, and the assurance that neither the patient nor the family will be abandoned.

If the patient is being cared for in a hospice unit in a hospital or nursing home, their families will have open visiting hours. They will be involved in the care of the patient to the highest degree possible. It is through this method that family and friends have the opportunity to demonstrate continuing love, and the patient is protected from a feeling of abandonment.

To be actively involved in the care of a loved one is a challenging experience, but research has shown that the stages of grief and acceptance are more easily dealt with by those personally involved with the patient. Hospice care is not designed so much for the treatment of disease as it is for the treatment of the person.

The Illinois Department of Public Health supports this movement by sponsoring hospice workshops, at the request of a community, for physicians, registered nurses, clergy and volunteers.

Although research into the effectiveness of hospice care training is in its infancy, evidence supports the conclusion that most nursing personnel who participate in the state health departments workshops become more sensitive to the needs of the dying patients and their families.

If you want more information about the hospice program workshops, contact the Illinois Department of Public Health, Division of Long-Term Care, 525 West Jefferson, Springfield, Ill. 62761.

ARREST AFTER CRASH
Curtis L. Clark, 20, of 2605 W. 22nd St. was arrested for careless driving and for leaving the scene of a 2 a.m. Friday collision with the parked pickup truck of Robert Sanders, 2037 Dewey Ave., at W. 21st and Dewey. There was damage to the front of both vehicles.

Washington Park woman arrested

Francine M. Williams, 33, of Washington Park, who allegedly also uses the name, Pamela J. Murphy, was arrested last week at Shop 'N Save, 3250 Namecki Road, and charged with attempted theft.

The woman was released to the Collinsville Police Department at 2:50 p.m. May 20 upon payment of a $102 cash bond here.

Her arrest came after the store manager alleged the woman attempted to cash a $143 check on an closed account at an East St. Louis bank.

While in custody here, she complained of having pains and was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for an examination. She was returned to police headquarters about an hour later.

FOUR CHARGES FILED

Russell B. Hughes Jr., 26, of 2 Lily Ave. was halted by police at E. 25th Street and Ridgedale Avenue at 8:50 p.m. Thursday on charges of driving while under the influence of alcohol, transporting beer, possessing cannabis and driving without red taillights. He was alleged to have driven through yards in Kirkpatrick Homes.

Speed limits in question

Is slowing traffic to 20 or 25 miles per hour on every street where a child has been struck by a car the answer to avoiding future pedestrian accidents?

That is a question Alderman Paul Fisk of the Third Ward asked the Granite City Council at its last meeting after Alderman Warren Decatur of the Fourth Ward asked that the speed limit on Wilson Park Lane be reduced to 20 miles per hour from Michigan and St. James to the dead end. Decatur noted a child had been struck by a car on that street.

Fisk responded, "I wonder if there isn't a better solution than slowing traffic down to 20 or 25 miles per hour."

Despite the question, the council approved the reduction in speed.

At the request of Alderman Mac Warfield of the Sixth Ward, the council also agreed to extend the 25 mph speed limit on Maryville Road from St. Clair to Terminal Avenue.

May 5, the council reduced the speed on Maryville Road from Emert to St. Clair avenues in response to the fatal wounding of a 5-year-old girl by a car in the 3200 block of Maryville Road April 27. Signs had not yet been posted last week when the latest action extended that limit farther south to Terminal Avenue.

The council also voted to limit the speed on all of Circle Drive to 20 mph due to complaints of cement trucks speeding on that drive and Namecki Drive.

In other business, the council congratulated Detective Sgt. Don Knight for being only the third Granite City policeman ever accepted for training at the FBI Academy. He will study earth are, from the left: Eldon Bigham, SIEU athletic director; Kenneth A. Shaw, chancellor of the SIU System; Earl Lazerson, president of SIEU; Senator Vadalabene; and Rick J. DeStefano, SIEU student representative on the SIU Board of Trustees. Construction of the 100,000-square-foot building is expected to require two years.

at the academy in Quantico, Va., June 28 to Sept. 12, before returning to his duties with the Granite City police.

Alderman Sam Whitmer, who has recently voted against all expenses for out-of-town seminars and training, made the motion to appropriate $900 for Sgt. Knight for his air fare and miscellaneous expenses, including one visit back to Granite City during the training. "Mayor, even I will vote for this one," Whitmer said in making the motion.

In an unrelated matter, Whitmer asked when the council can expect to see ordinances it requested setting fees for business licenses in the city and requiring the passage of physical examinations by all future city employees. He was told that the two ordinances should be ready by tonight. The meeting, which lasted from 8 until 11 p.m., prompted Mayor Paul Schulz to ask the aldermen to consider ways to speed up the meetings, particularly the reading of correspondence.

He noted, "The meetings keep getting longer and longer. There may be a more efficient way to inform the aldermen and the residents of what is on the agenda."

Alderman Paul Ray Bowler noted that in Belleville, the aldermen are provided with copies of routine correspondence several days before each meeting and only the necessary correspondence is read at the meeting. Schulz suggested that the method used in Belleville be considered for use in Granite City.

Ask 'public airing' of jury probe into assessment system

Harry Renken of the Organizing Committee, a citizens' organization in the eastern part of the county, said in a statement last week the grand jury report released a week ago "definitely does not clear Barton" and renewed their call for the public release of the Department of Criminal Investigation report into alleged irregularities in the assessment system in the county.

"The scope of the DCI probe and the grand jury were both too limited. Just because the grand jury found insufficient evidence upon which to base a criminal indictment, doesn't mean there isn't something terribly wrong with the Supervisor of Assessment office and the Board of Review," he said. "The grand jury didn't say, as they said of another subject, 'the allegations were unfounded'; they just weren't able to find the 'smoking gun'."

A thorough investigation of the entire assessment system should be conducted by the County Board, as we suggested two years ago in a letter sent to County Board members. "We found it curious, also, that only one out of the seven chief actors in the assessment system was even mentioned in the grand jury report, and only two were called before the grand jury for questioning. Barton was not called, nor was Harris, nor past members of the Board of Review, Heil, Coulas and Gitchoff."

"Finally, we commend the grand jury's recommendation that the DCI report be turned over to the County Board. But we further call on the county board chairman and the state's attorney to release the report to the public. We suggest placing a copy in the public library, so that everyone can have the opportunity to look at it. We look forward to cooperation from the board chairman and the state's attorney, so that Madison County's assessment system can get a public airing."

ART ADDS ANOTHER DIMENSION. Prisoners at Madison County Jail work on hand-crafted articles during an art and design learning session at the holding facility. In addition to ceramics, the prisoners receive instruction in drawing, painting and graphic design. The classes are provided by faculty members of the department of art and design at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

SIUE instructor conducts art classes in county jail

Henry Ward Beecher once said that every artist dips his brush in his soul, and paints his own nature into his pictures. In expressing her definition of art, Amy Lowell said that art is the desire of a man to express himself, to record the reactions of his personality to the world he lives in. Frances Tetreault of Troy would probably agree with both of them.

Mrs. Tetreault conducts a course in art education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville that shows instructors how to teach art and design to students confined in correctional settings. The techniques and observations she uses as examples in her lectures do not come from textbooks — she gets them first-hand.

Before coming to the area about three years ago, Mrs. Tetreault was an art instructor at the Larimer County Jail in Fort Collins, Col. Today, she provides the same type of art activities for prisoners at both the Madison and St. Clair County jails.

Many of the students in her class, "Human Development Through the Arts," have expressed interest in teaching in penal institutions after graduation. "It takes a certain amount of courage and compassion to explore the correctional area as a career field," Mrs. Tetreault said.

The SIUE instructor has plenty of both. She is quite concerned about what can happen to the psyche of people who spend long periods of time in confinement. Mrs. Tetreault feels that long before they are imprisoned, these people's worlds have narrowed down considerably. Confinement merely serves to constrict their options further.

Mrs. Tetreault believes that art allows the prisoners to broaden their sights again, while giving them an entertaining and constructive way to pass the time. It also helps them alleviate depression during their confinement and can give them a sense of accomplishment and self-worth.

Just getting a class in art and design started in a penal institution can be a challenging task in itself. There usually is little encouragement, perhaps, least of all from the prisoners themselves.

Mrs. Tetreault's first attempt at teaching a class behind bars is a prime example of what can happen with such a venture. The year was 1974, and it was several weeks before Mother's Day.

When the prisoners at Larimer County Jail were asked if they would like to construct cards for their mothers, the offer was negatively received. Except for one decisive voice speaking from the center of the cell during today, "I do," the class would have met an untimely end before it got off the ground.

The prisoner who wasn't afraid to admit he wanted to make a card for his wife was a second-story man — one voice, but a determined one. When he stepped forward, he brought with him nine other men who suddenly wanted to touch base with home.

"Jail is a tremendous waste of human resources," Mrs. Tetreault contends, yet at the same time she praises the second-story man for his contributions to the general well-being of the prison block.

"He could bring a sense of adventure into things," she said. "He would go about the prison, wrestling people out of their depression."

Mrs. Tetreault admits that over the years, many prisoners have used her classes as a means of temporary respite from their cells. "One way you can tell they are truly interested is when they ask if they can take paper with them back to their cells," she said.

Mrs. Tetreault is justifiably proud of her students. She has a right to be. Some of them are fairly good artists. "One young man has discovered cartooning — whenever and wherever he can find them," she said.

Another has brought her a series of surrealist drawings. "The have a mystic quality about them," Mrs. Tetreault said. "You have such a quality about them," she told him. "Do you write?" He answered no. She was not about to give in. "You have so much to give in your drawings. I wonder if you've ever tried to write poetry."

"Oh," he said. "Poetry." Then he sat down and proceeded to write eight lines of poignant verse on the sense of loneliness. "He has a gift of writing as well as drawing, and he wasn't even aware of it," she said, proudly.

In addition to drawing, painting and writing, the prisoners receive instruction in ceramics, tissue art, and graphic arts design. Picking up a heart-shaped piece of unfired clay with a message inscribed upon it by a female prisoner, Mrs. Tetreault said, "Women tend to do romantic things."

Ideas for self-expression in art may come from anywhere, Mrs. Tetreault said. "Drawings may come from a crack in the floor, or from seeing a shadow of a pattern," she explained. "Leaves on a sidewalk. Sometimes I have watched sunshine casting a shadow on my canvas, and I have painted it."

If art can let prisoners reach beyond the bars to bring a little sunshine into their lives, it may make all the difference in the world in how they perceive the world when they join it again. They can thank Francis Tetreault for caring enough to help them make it shine.

Sewer district may not pay Chouteau

Chouteau Township officials are asking for the $23,000 that was loaned to the Madison County Special Sewer District, and have requested that assistant state attorney, Marshall "Zeke" Smith, devise a payment time table.

At the Chouteau Town Board meeting last week, a letter from Smith informed board members that the sewer district is presently unable to make payments. Smith indicated that he hoped board members would consider donating the money to the district.

The matter was not resolved, as board members were not in agreement on the issue.

It was announced that the proposed hearing for use of the township's federal revenue sharing fund will be May 26 at the Chouteau Town Hall at 7 p.m. All citizens are being invited to attend and their suggestions on fund usage are welcomed.

A letter from State Representative Sam Wolf informed the board that there will be an Illinois surplus sale June 13 at the Illinois State Fair Grounds. The state will auction surplus items such as typewriters, desks and filing cabinets which are no longer needed.

FREE FROM TRUCK

Two young men were seen by a security guard at Prairie Farms Dairy acting suspiciously around some of the company's trucks and one of the men climbed into the cab of a refrigerated truck, started the engine and tried to drive away, the guard said. The truck moved about 100 feet before the young man jumped out and he and his companion ran north behind the warehouse and escaped.

Hazardous waste sites must be reported to U.S. EPA

Less than three weeks remain for owners and operators of current or former hazardous waste treatment, storage, or disposal facilities to report these sites to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) under provisions of the recently enacted Superfund legislation.

"This information must be submitted to the EPA by June 9 as part of a national survey to pinpoint and evaluate hazardous waste sites which may pose a threat to human health or the environment," said Valdas V. Adamkus, acting EPA Midwest regional administrator.

Willful failure to notify can result in a $10,000 fine, a one-year jail term or both.

Notifications are required from past and current site owners and operators of facilities no longer in use or operating without federal authorization. Haulers must also disclose sites which they have used to dispose of hazardous wastes.

Facilities which responded under terms of the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act are not required to submit new notifications.

Information reports on hazardous waste activities in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin should be submitted to EPA Region V, Site Notification, Chicago, IL, 60604.

For assistance in the six-state EPA Midwest region, the number to call is (312) 886-3500.

Adamkus also encourages citizens with information on past or current hazardous waste facilities to inform the EPA or complete a site notification form.

MICHAEL J. ZIKOVICH, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Zikovich, 3332 Edgewood Drive, has been awarded a four-year academic scholarship to Trinity College in Hartford, Conn. He attends Granite City High School South and will graduate May 29. He is salutatorian of his class.

Medical center program aids patients with lung disease

"There is no cure for chronic lung diseases, like emphysema, but it is possible to utilize what a person has in order to live a meaningful life," Mike Range, director of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Pulmonary Services at St. Edwardsville, explained to Edwardsville RSVP members.

"Chronic lung disease does damage to lung tissues that cannot be repaired," Range said. "But the disease process can be stopped and people suffering from these diseases can be rehabilitated."

Range went on to explain the Pulmonary Rehab program at SEMC. "Patients are referred to our program by their physician. Some people are referred while they are in the hospital being treated for respiratory problems, while others may be referred for treatment as an outpatient."

"We start working with the patient by doing pulmonary function tests that show how well the lungs are working. When the studies are complete, the rehab staff begins teaching the patient how to live with the disease. This teaching program helps both the patient and family understand what the disease involves and what lifestyle changes may be necessary to improve the patient's condition, he said.

An important aspect of rehabilitation, according to Range, is exercise. "Muscles that are out of shape require more oxygen to do simple tasks." By reconditioning the muscles of the body, the demand for oxygen is less and the work load for the lungs is decreased.

In addition, patients are taught the role of medication and diet in their daily lives.

MIKE RANGE, director of Cardio-Pulmonary Services at St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City, addresses a meeting of Edwardsville RSVP members.

They learn what their medication is for, the importance of taking it regularly and what possible side effects they may have to look for. Patients are advised that there are certain foods they should avoid because their body's reaction to them may cause increased shortness of breath.

A significant part of the rehabilitation program is the Better Breathers Club. According to Rick Bargiel, coordinator of the Pulmonary Rehab program, "This group provides patients an opportunity to socialize. Some of our members are patients in the Pulmonary Rehab Unit, others have been discharged, but our meetings give them a chance to get to know one another and talk about their experiences."

The meetings, held every two weeks, include a brief teaching session, and opportunity to ask questions and a time to visit with each other.

"These patients are faced with the fact that there is no cure for their disease. They have some bad days and can get really discouraged. It helps them to meet other people who have the same problems. They don't feel so alone," Bargiel said.

End-loader repair okayed by council

Faced with choices whether to expend $5,000 or $8,000 or $45,000 to get an end-loader tractor in operation on the streets of Granite City, the Granite City Council last week decided to accept the cheapest option.

Superintendent of Streets Lionel Portelli told the council that the transmission on the end-loader the street department now has is broken and will cost about $45,000 to repair, since the whole engine has to be removed to take the transmission out and repair it. Other options given by Portelli were to purchase a new transmission for the tractor for $8,000 installed or to buy a new tractor, which would cost more than $45,000.

"We need it bad," Portelli told the aldermen, noting that its breaking down occurred at a bed time, since the May 17 storm left the city littered with fallen tree limbs and the tractor is used for lifting heavy limbs, concrete and other heavy debris onto dump trucks.

He noted that the city purchased the 1973 model now in use for $17,500, which is well below the current market rate and the tractor has been in "almost constant use since then."

He said it would take about two weeks to fix. Asked if the city could rent such a tractor for those two weeks to let expedite limb pickups, Portelli estimated that a tractor would cost $35 an hour to rent.

The council then decided to have the current tractor repaired immediately and put back into use as soon as possible. They authorized the expending of up to $5,000 for the repairs.

Open house at County Mutual office building

Madison County Mutual Automobile Insurance Company will be hosting an open house at its new home office building at 1 Mutual Court in Edwardsville on Saturday, May 30, and Sunday, May 31.

The public may visit and tour the 26,667 square-foot energy-efficient structure, styled in a colonial architecture by Builders Design Service, architects. R & M Construction served as general contractor.

Madison County Mutual began operation in January 1929 in the Joseph Hlad store building, which still stands southeast of Edwardsville. Hlad, better known as Joseph H. Ladd, served as manager of the company from its inception and was succeeded by his son, Theodore Z. Ladd.

After occupying space on Hillsboro Avenue for a short time, the company became a tenant in 1923 in the then new Edwardsville National Bank and Trust Co. building and remained until March 1, 1961. Laddimir J. Aubrecht, an employee for nearly 33 years until his retirement in March 1979, succeeded Ted Ladd as manager.

General Manager Clinton H. Rogier said the management and board are pleased to announce that they have completed construction and occupancy without any debt or dilution of investments. Policyholders' premiums will increase as a result of the project because the building is completely paid for, he related.

About 40,000 automobiles are currently insured by the company in and around Madison County. As of Dec. 31, 1980, assets totaled $16,124,000 and surplus to policyholders $7,392,000.

In addition to Rogier, board members include President B. E. Holtz, Edward Kleppisch, Willard J. Schoeck, Manuel Kastin and Lamont H. Heidinger. Management plans a gradual expansion in the area of operations, as well as development of new products in the future.

No. 1 Mutual Court is just off Route 157, across from the SIUE entrance. Guests will be welcomed from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday and 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Field school at Indian mounds for 10 weeks

Those looking for an unusual vacation this summer may be interested in an archaeological field school offered by the Cahokia Mounds Historic Site here.

Monk's Mound, the largest prehistoric earthen structure in America, was the center of a thriving civilization from 600 A.D. to 1400 A.D. Cahokia Mounds, the largest prehistoric site in the United States, was surrounded by huge temple and burial grounds.

Cahokia Mounds' field school is one of the few places in the U.S. where nonprofessionals can participate in "hands-on" archaeology.

The school is offered each summer, and is open to the general public.

No prior archaeological experience or education is necessary to enroll, and middle-aged adults often work alongside college and high school students.

This summer's excavations will focus on the stockade—a large log wall, much like a fort, that enclosed the "downtown" area of this prehistoric city.

Bill Lemming, 80, staff member, says the stockade was built through earlier living areas, so students find abundant pottery, flint tools, animal bones and other artifacts.

House floors, storage pits, and refuse pits are often uncovered and carefully excavated by students and staff.

Previous excavations have revealed that the wall was built and rebuilt at least four times.

The field school is not designed to produce professional archaeologists, but simply to stimulate greater public appreciation of archaeology.

Five two-week sessions are available: June 15 to 27; June 29 to July 11; July 13 to 25; July 27 to Aug. 8; and Aug. 10 to 22.

Lemming said, "You'll work eight hours a day, 5½ days per week. Your tools and equipment will be provided. But food, transportation, lodging, and personal expenses must be done by you."

"Motels and primitive camping facilities are available nearby."

Tuition is $75 for each two-week session. You must be 16 years or older, in good health, and show a genuine interest in archaeology.

Younger children may accompany a parent who is enrolled in a session.

"More women than men usually enroll in the field school and many teachers take their experiences back to the classroom."

"Some high school students like to try on archaeology as a profession, to see if they'd like to major in it at college. Many adults are delighted with the opportunity to do something like this, and even retirees have participated."

"You will be instructed in the fundamentals of archaeology."

"Your day will be split between field work—surveying, digging, mapping, photography, and screening—and lab work—washing, sorting, and cataloging your finds."

For applications and more information, Quad-Cityans may write or call: Cahokia Mounds Museum Society, Box 382, Collinsville, Ill. 62234, telephone 344-5268.

Auditions at Muny

The Municipal Theater Association of St. Louis will hold its annual children's auditions on Saturday, June 6. The Muny is looking for talented youngsters between the ages of 6 and 14 and under 5 feet in height to appear in this year's children's season, "Hans Christian Andersen," which will be presented during the week of Aug. 3 through 9.

Boys will be auditioned at 10 a.m. and girls at noon on the west rehearsal platform at The Muny in Forest Park.

Auditioners must be able to both sing and dance. They should bring their own dance shoes and be prepared to learn and perform dance steps which will be demonstrated to them at the time, including ballet, tap and jazz.

They will also be asked to sing a short song which will show their vocal ability and musicality. It will not be necessary to bring sheet music. Members of the performing units will be auditioned first.

afraid the street department will be responsible for cleaning the intake to the lift station after each storm.

"That's the problem with the Dorey Slough pump. It's a trash problem," Portell said.

Brewer agreed, saying that the lift station will be of little or no use, unless the intake is kept clear.

On a request by Alderman Warren Decatur of the Fourth Ward, Brewer agreed to investigate the cost of the proposed lift station and report back to the council at its next meeting. He later noted that the Briarcliff drainage program is to be paid for from next year's Community Development grant.

"Dave Nolan (administrative assistant to Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler) said the money will be there," Brewer told the Press-Record.

seem to be discussing it logically. But in the center photo, it's obvious that Patton can't believe what he's just heard. At right, he leaves the discussion abruptly. By the way, Patton lost the argument.

Freeman honored as Madison lauds its hero

DON FREEMAN
As an Illini

By TOM SCHOCKER
of the Press Record
MADISON—Athlete, Businessman, Humanitarian. Any and all of these words would be appropriate enough to describe Don Freeman. Many people have tried to say more, but there just isn't enough words that can characterize the basketball player to ever wear the green and white of the Madison Trojans.

Some believe Don Freeman was the best player ever from this area. To show their appreciation and gratitude, the Madison High Trojan Boosters Club and the city of Madison officially retired number 15 and proclaimed Saturday, the 23rd of May as Don Freeman Day.

In a banquet at the Venice-Madison American Legion Post 307 Saturday, Freeman stood along with the 1981 Madison Trojan Boys Class A State Basketball Champions, were honored. Tyrone Echols, the mayor of Venice, served as the master of ceremonies. Earl McClanahan, principal of the Madison Middle School and former high school coach of Freeman's, retired his uniform. But to really understand the type of remarkable athlete Freeman was, all you had to do was to listen as McClanahan read off the long list of his accomplishments. After being named to the all-state team in 1962, Freeman, because of his good grades and outstanding basketball talent, chose to play college ball at the University of Illinois. He lettered varsity in 1964-65-66 and was captain, along with being named the team's most valuable player, in 1966.

He still holds the school record for most points in a season (608) in 1966 in 24 games, an average of 27.8. He ranks fifth on career scoring charts with 1,449 points in 72 games (20.1) and also fifth in career rebounds with 742 (10.3). In his senior year, he was a first-team all-American selection by the Helms Foundation, a second-team selection by Converse and Basketball News and an honorable mention pick by United Press International (UPI).

Within the Big Ten, Freeman was a first-team pick by the UPI and Associated Press (AP) in 1966 and a third-team in 1965 by UPI. Just last March, he was the top vote-getter on the Illinois' 75th Diamond Anniversary Basketball Team chosen by the Illini fans. If that's not good enough, Freeman was also the top player in the 1941 to present category of former Illini greats.

Upon graduation, he was drafted by the Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball Association (NBA). He went on to play for eight different teams in the NBA and the ABA (American Basketball Association) from 1968 through 1976, where he was an all-pro three years and an all-star five. His last professional team was with the NBA's Los Angeles Lakers.

Freeman is now a successful businessman, working at the Commercial Bank of Champaign. He's moving his new talents to Dallas, Texas where he's shooting for high goals.

FREEMAN REFLECTS

But Saturday was a time of reflection. A time to remember and honor Number One—Don Freeman. "Madison's style of basketball hasn't changed much," said Freeman, comparing the current state champs with his days. "It seems each year they get quicker and faster." But Don himself probably started the trend now known as "Madison Basketball." And who would know better than his former coaches and teammates.

Vernell Jackson, former coach during Freeman's grade school days—"Don had all the potential. I knew he would go as far as he did. I coached him. I called school yard ball. It was the testing ground. If you could pass the test there, you could play anywhere." "Don-Bon" continually passed the test."

Wade James, assistant superintendent of schools and former grade school coach—"Everything he attempted, he tried doing the best way he could. In sixth grade he would say against eighth graders. It was just tremendous to see the determination. It's a special feeling to coach someone who turns out and makes it. Farris Smith, Madison's chief of police and Freeman's teammate and close friend during high school—"We started school together from the first grade on. I knew he would turn out like this. He used to practice at night when we were kids. He definitely had the ability. It's a special feeling for me. It's a hell of an honor to know the man."

Earl McClanahan, Freeman's high school coach—"Don improved steadily throughout high school. He didn't get to play much the first two years. He averaged 18 points and 10 rebounds his junior year and couldn't touch the rim. So, he went on a weight program and six weeks later he called me into the gym to show me he could stuff the ball." Bogie Redmond, former Collinsville great and teammate of Freeman's at Illinois—"Anything Don got he deserved. I really didn't think he was going to make it, but I count my blessings now to be a friend of Don Freeman."

Freeman's athletic talent was extraordinary. But his main goal in life was an education. "I didn't think of playing pro ball," said Freeman. "My biggest goal was to graduate from Illinois with a degree and an education. I've played basketball from the fourth grade until I was 32. You can only play so long. Then instead of competing physically, you have to start competing mentally with people."

"My only regret about playing pro ball for those years is that most of my peers had 10 years on me in the business world when I finally started. That's why most of my speeches are not directed to adults, but to the kids. The sense of competitiveness will take you a long way, but you have to have something to back up your abilities."

Freeman concluded by thanking the people of Madison for their undying support. "There was always someone there to give me a hump. Someone has always seen something in me and I'll never forget that. I have plans for the kids in Madison when my business days are over. I have come from where I have known—I owe you one."

Amid the cheering from the standing ovation Freeman received, you would have to think that he doesn't owe Madison. It would just be a privilege to have known and to see the great Don Freeman in from Madison.

Madison stars put on razzie-dazzle show

By TOM SCHOCKER
of the Press Record
MADISON—Imagine, just for one night, that the pages of time were turned back. It's the early 1960's and Madison high school basketball fans are watching Don Freeman and Cecil Bell lead their Trojans to yet another victory.

They're a little older now and maybe a little slower, but for a few hours here Friday, the Madison gymnasium was once again the meeting place for some of the great Trojan stars. In a kick-off to the Don Freeman Day on Saturday (see related story), an all-star group of past Madison players returned to take to the floor one more time.

In a doubleheader basketball game, a team of older stars from pre-1970 years took on a team comprised of Madison faculty and school board members. The older stars proved they still could play the game and won 53-48.

The second contest pitted a squad based around the 1977 state championship team against a group of all-stars that played between 1970 and 1980. It was the highlight of the evening as the 1977 based team was edged out in a barn-burner 110-104. It looked like they still had what it takes.

Playing on the Trojan court again included Cecil Bell, who was an all-star in 1963 and 1964 and ranks fourth on the all-time Madison scoring list with 1147 points. Bob Page, another two-time all-star in 1952-53. He ranks ninth in scoring with 979 and was a member of the 1952 state tournament team.

Jacob Young, who scored 650 points in his career and was the fifth leading rebounder with 562. One of the younger returnees was Bob Fouts. A 1965 graduate, he ranks ninth in shooting percentage at 58. And just the opposite, the older men of the bunch, Howard Silas, Charles Rockett and Vernell Jackson were picked to be the All-Illinois-Missouri team at Dunbar High School. That's before Madison came to be.

The team was rounded out by Ed Young, Dennis Latham, Leon Bland, Dale Crawford, Clarence Silas, Mel Jackson and Ken Griggs. For them, a lot of memories were brought back, along with some new aches. "It was a lot of fun to be in it," said Jake Young. "I felt great, but I couldn't run as long as I used to."

"I had the old stuff—for about a minute," said Bell. "When I saw all these teammates of mine, I acted like I had seen them just yesterday."

For Page, a Quad-City resident, it was home to him, who, by the way, didn't look at all like the years had slowed him down. "I grew up with some of these guys," said Page. "So, I was at home. (Howard) Silas and I played together all the time. That's how we got started. For some, though, it was the first time since I graduated that I played ball with them. You're talking some 25 years."

The years had really crept up on Silas. He was one of four Madison greats that played in the old Dunbar High School. He was the last class before Madison High came. "It's nothing like when we were kids," said Silas. "It doesn't matter how old you are, you still think you got it. I grew up with Page and we always played together. It was a good time to get on the floor again." Silas must have had the old touch. He was high leading scorer with 14 points.

Neil Padoba was the only other double figure man for the old-timers. He had 10. The faculty and board members were led by Madison head baseball coach John Paskus with nine. Don Garrett also had nine as the rest of the team consisted of Madison school board members John Papa, Paul Bargien, Ed Newsome, head football coach Al Vonderhaar, assistant middle school principal Charlie McCaskill and art teacher Terry Beer.

The younger players took to the court in the second game. The talent was still there, too. Ron Jones, an all-star in 1976 and number 12 on the scoring list with 873, returned to form, leading the victors with 29 points. Teammate Larry Boyd chipped in 20. Rudolph Newsome, head of Jones on the scoring list with 896, had 16 and Crawford Walker scored 10.

Other members on the 1970-1980 team were single high game assist leader (14) Ricky Powers, Jerry Belford, who is 13th on the scoring list with 741, Tyrone Echols, Kerry Guest, Greg Lucas, Jon Henke, Joe Quinlan, Jeff Stanley and Joe Dozier.

The 1977 state champs were led by all-star of 1978 and the all-time assist leader (310) Anthony King with 20 points. He also ranks 17th in scoring (679). A teammate on the 1977 team and an all-star in 1979, Kenny Stanley had 15. He is 10th in scoring (922).

Other members of the 1977 team, Rod Davis had 15 points. Ron Williams had 10 and an 1977 all-star and leader in scoring (118) Randall Jones had 11. Ron Morris added 14 as the remaining players of the team included Eric Stanley, Clayton Harris, Lloyd Williams, Thorton Wiggins, Larry Boyd, Anthony London and James Gardner.

School Association's state playoffs, before bowing to eventual champion Quincy. Maras, an outstanding student who plans to major in engineering at UI, shot 56 percent from the field and 60 percent from the free throw line. He led the Northwest Suburban Conference in scoring and rebounding all season long.

"Dee is a strong player and tough rebounder," Henson said. "He's a Big Ten type player who should do well for us."

South ousts Tigers

GRANITE CITY—One bad inning has hurt Edwardsville's softball team all year long. The Tigers were plagued by that pattern against Granite City South in quarterfinal action of the Class AA, Allon Marquette Girls Softball Regional here Thursday. And Warrior starting pitcher Karen Spencer gave Edwardsville one more thing to make it up. It wasn't enough.

Spencer continued her infallible pitching in the second inning, leading to a 2-0 victory over the Tigers. It was the fourth win in a row for the third-seeded Warriors. The Tigers were in the semi-finals at Allon Marquette tomorrow where they will face second-seeded Wood River. To the relief of Warrior head coach Pat Yates, Spencer's strong hold on Edwardsville lasted until the fifth inning. By that time, South had built a 7-0 lead. "I think practice and hard work has made the difference with Karen's pitching," said Yates. "She seems to be taking her time between pitches and concentrating a lot more. She's letting the batters hit the ball and allowing her defense to work for her."

All South's defense had to worry about was making the out. Because, until the fifth inning, Spencer had allowed but one base runner, a walk in the second, and had let just one ball to be hit out of the infield. In other words, she was throwing a no-hitter.

That was until Edwardsville scored twice in the fifth on three hits and two walks. Even the Tiger's all-star catcher Diane Settle couldn't solve Spencer's magic. Settle, who will attend the University of New Mexico on a full-ride softball scholarship next year, did manage a hit and an RBI. She did it by pitching the offense belonged to the Warriors. The one bad inning for the Tigers struck them in the second. South sent its girls to the plate and came away with five runs. Hits by Natalie Buster, Kim Ross, one of two Warriors to collect two hits in the game, and Ann Chepeley, who also picked up an RBI, spurred the attack. Chris Boyd and Nita Graham were also credited with driving in a run. "We are notorious for having one bad inning," said Tiger head coach Kay Hyten. "Most of the games we have lost was because of that. It has been our downfall all year long." It also brought the end to Edwardsville's season. EDV 000 020 6-1 4 4 GCSS 151 010 8-1 1 WP- Karen Spencer, L.P. Jacques Scherff, HR- none.

Site improvement to precede next River Festival

Suspension of the Mississippi River Festival summer concert series for 1981 is a sad occurrence but it may prove constructive if it leads to improved future River Festivals and to an MRF facility at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

It will be recalled that when the annual series was established in 1969, there was a mammoth tent connected to the permanent stage and building. In addition to the reserved seating within the tent, there was room for vast throngs on a hillside forming a natural amphitheater.

Concerts ranged from St. Louis Symphony Orchestra appearances, performing both classical music and lighter "pop" events, to a wide variety of popular, rock, folk, country-western, big band, vocal and nostalgic concerts.

Over the years, St. Louis area promoters began to duplicate many of the types of performances presented here, and there were some problems with crowd control. Eventually, the site was eliminated and the schedule began to concentrate on rock music stars and groups.

A factor never fully solved was the unpredictable weather. Large sums had to be promised to many of the performers, and if rain prevented concerts or limited the attendance, deficits were inevitable.

Inflation began to add to the cost problem, and attendance dropped.

The Nelderlander organization, meanwhile, had begun producing the River Festival under a contract with SIUE and agreed to make various site improvements, an objective not yet carried out. Although seven years remain on a ten-year contract, both parties agreed Friday afternoon not to schedule any MRF concert this year.

The Nelderlanders had indicated earlier in 1981 that they planned no River Festival events this summer, and the university also took the position that it was less than eager to see another series like those of recent times.

Prior to last week's discussion, SIUE developed such questions as: Will Nelderlander renovate the MRF facilities? Will it build a permanent concert center? What artists will be sought? How committed is the busy, nationwide show business organization to the local series?

Both sides now agree that major improvements are required at the MRF site, although financial sources for such work remain undetermined.

Attention will focus on creating a roof to house a much larger gathering than the present site is able to accommodate. In addition, there still will be utilization of outdoor seating (blankets and portable chairs) in combination with the covered areas.

Further meetings are planned, perhaps involving metropolitan area business firms along with the Nelderlanders and the university.

Quad-Cityans are hopeful that a new and brighter era lies ahead for the Mississippi River Festival, even though there will be no 13th season in 1981.

University hoping to resolve dispute with Big Ten

Guest comment by University of Illinois President Stanley O. Kenenberry—Many Illinoisans have shared our growing concern about the deterioration of relationships between the University of Illinois and the Big Ten Conference.

There is a substantial improvement in these relationships.

Our common problem began several months ago as litigation involving the eligibility of David C. Wilson (football quarterback) moved through the courts. Although several attempts were made by both sides to improve communication and strengthen mutual trust, each day saw further deterioration. This culminated in the letter to us April 27 from the faculty representatives citing findings and sanctions against the university.

Chancellor John E. Cribbet of the Urbana-Champaign campus worked tirelessly and with great integrity at this time to resolve the problem. He joined me May 4 in Evanston at the regular meeting of the presidents and chancellors of our sister Big Ten universities and we reviewed the seriousness of the matter with our colleagues.

Following this discussion, the Big Ten presidents passed the following resolution: "We have great confidence in President Kenenberry, Chancellor Cribbet and the University of Illinois."

"The Big Ten universities are inseparable colleagues as great American educational institutions. Our association is far broader than academics."

"We request the faculty representatives and the U. of Illinois to work together to deal with the implications of the Wilson case, and we will expect a progress report."

Pres. Willard Boyd of Iowa was designated to work with the representatives and the university to seek an early resolution of the problem. On May 11 and 12, Chancellor Cribbet and I, along with other members of the U. of Illinois delegation, met with the faculty representatives of the Big Ten along with Pres. Boyd and Commissioner Wayne Duke.

Immediately on our arrival, we sensed a marked improvement in the atmosphere. There was a genuine desire on their part to reach out to us, to re-establish the frayed lines of communication, and to work toward reconstruction of mutual confidence.

With help from every person around the table, we were able to understand our respective positions, to clear up fact from misunderstanding, and achieve a new level of mutual trust.

At the close of the day, a joint statement was issued: "The faculty representatives reaffirm their respect for the integrity of the distinguished university. They and the U. of Illinois share the determination that it continue as a member of the conference."

"Both believe they have begun and will continue an effective dialogue about institutional responsibility for intercollegiate athletics in the Big Ten."

"The U. of Illinois recognizes that the very life of any voluntary association is dependent on the full cooperation of all of its members. The university also understands the gravity of the concerns of the faculty representatives that full authority and responsibility to establish and interpret all conference rules for the conduct of intercollegiate athletics reside with the faculty representatives."

"The representatives voted to defer the date of application of any sanctions until Sept. 1 to provide sufficient time for them and the university to continue their discussions and to proceed with efforts to respond to the specific concerns expressed by the representatives. They and the university will continue to meet to assess the progress of their joint efforts and to evaluate the sanctions in light of that progress."

"The fundamental concern of the university focused on the issue of integrity, a matter with implications ranging far beyond the Wilson case. The faculty representatives, the fundamental issue revolved around the authority and responsibility of the conference to determine its own membership and to govern effectively in a voluntary organization. The university shared those concerns as well."

"Deference to the date of application of sanctions will provide time for both to continue to work together, and for the university to clarify roles and responsibilities and make improvements in its program. Most of these efforts had been launched under the direction of Chancellor Cribbet before the current tensions began and are now near completion."

"The university will be in continuing contact with the representatives and we will reconvene in late summer to review accomplishments and reassess sanctions. Our goal is to provide for complete removal of the sanctions prior to Sept. 1, but we recognize also that the final determination of that issue must rest in the hands of the faculty representatives."

"We deeply appreciate the support received from every quarter during this trying period. We hope you will find most recent turn of events as an opportunity to improve the long-term relationship between the conference and the university. Our goal is to infuse a new spark of affection in that marriage."

dependent parents of deceased workers who qualify for benefits at age 62 if the worker was providing at least half of their support. In addition, about 127,000 disabled widows and widowers age 50-60 are eligible for Social Security benefits on the record of a deceased spouse. Widows and widowers may also qualify for Social Security benefits on the record of the deceased spouse.

For more information on Social Security benefits, contact the nearest social security office.

The statistics become more meaningful when one looks at who is currently on the social security rolls. As of October 1980, the total figure was 35.2 million. Of these, 19.5 million retired workers and about 3 million of their wives and husbands and 600,000 of their dependent children.

Disabled workers number 2.9 million and their dependents another 1.8 million for a total of 4.7 million people getting benefits under the disability program. There are 7.6 million widows and widowers and 2.7 million children.

Each Security official often makes the point that social security is not just a retirement program in order to make people aware of the disability and survivors insurance features. But it's also true that the number of people under age 65 receiving benefits - 11.8 million, or about a third of the total number of beneficiaries - dramatizes the importance of the program to people of working age.

About 4.2 million beneficiaries are children receiving benefits as the dependents of retired, disabled, or deceased workers. They include children 18-22 who are unmarried and still in school full-time and children of any age who are disabled before age 22.

Among the lesser known beneficiaries are some 95,000

Hot air balloon race at Six Flags

Launch time is set for 5 p.m. Saturday, May 30, in the KSHE-95 Six Flags Balloon Championship, with more than 40 hot air balloons from throughout the mid-west expected to compete.

The "Hare and Hounds" race will be held in front of the Six Flags over Mid-America parking lot in Eureka, Mo., the first major hot air balloon event of the year in the St. Louis area.

The park is located along I-44 about 14 miles West of I-270. Sponsored by KSHE-95 radio and Six Flags, the event will offer over $5,000 in cash and prizes. Pilots will attempt to fly and land their balloons closest to a "Hare Balloon" which is the first to inflate and launch. First prize is $2,500, second prize is $1,800, and third prize is $1,000.

Activities will get underway about 3 p.m. when pilots begin preparing their balloons. Spectators are invited to come out early to see the balloons up close and talk to the pilots.

"This will be one of the most colorful events of the year at Six Flags, and we hope it will develop into the largest hot air balloon race in the St. Louis area," said Robert Esch, president of Esch, Inc., the Six Flags over Mid-America firm conducting the race.

Six Flags will open the day of the race from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Admission at the gate is $10.95 plus tax per person (free for children 2 and under), although a paid admission is not required to see the race. Parking in the Six Flags lot is available for $2.

Six Flags vice president and general manager Richard Link said, "We're delighted to host such a colorful family-oriented event which certainly complements the colorful day of the variety of entertainment we offer at Six Flags."

At the urging of Board Member Morris Miles, the Madison County Board last week designated a request by Glen Reichman, owner and Doyle Husband, purchaser, for permission to store goods and materials outdoors.

Husband Contracting is located on West Chain of Rocks Road in a B-3 highway business district of Chouteau Township. It is behind Reichman Enterprises and is outside of a fenced-in area.

Miles said the Madison County Board of Appeals twice, failed to approve a zoning variation and, after a third hearing, gave approval only if the outside storage was limited to railroad ties and if the area was completely fenced in.

The Mitchell area board member said the variation would be incompatible with the surrounding blocks in the vicinity, and persuaded the County Board to reverse the Appeals Board recommendation.

In other business transacted by the County Board, Chairman Nelson Hagnauer appointed Golden Barton to a three-year term on the Mitchell fire district board and reappointed Earl Phelps to a five-year term on the Mitchell water district board.

Hagnauer named County Board Member Richard Link as a member of the county welfare committee.

Board Member H. Jack Frandsen announced that the village of Pontoon Beach is objecting to formation of an agricultural area proposed by Gordon and Mary Frandsen.

Since there is less than one and a half miles between the area and the village, the objection blocks the proposal, Frandsen said.

He commented that there is a trend toward forming agricultural areas, but that the designation offers little or no benefits to the owners because they can bar incompatible development, anyway, merely by refusing to sell parts of their property.

The board entered into an order Monday, Wednesday to provide law enforcement service in Godfrey Township.

The county also entered into a contract for updating of its base maps by the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission.

3 chosen for scientific seminar

To the Editor:
I extend my most earnest congratulations to Tracy Waters, Tracy Champion and Karen Lapinski of Madison High School.

The selection of these three to attend the summer scientific seminar at the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo., is quite noteworthy.

The program that they will be involved in will be a memorable one for them, as they will gain first-hand knowledge of the varied fields of science.

Many forms of social security is available

Many people don't realize that the social security system provides income to widows and orphans, and the elderly, as well as the retired workers and their dependents. In fact, about one out of every six persons in the United States are receiving some type of social security benefit.

The statistics become more meaningful when one looks at who is currently on the social security rolls. As of October 1980, the total figure was 35.2 million. Of these, 19.5 million retired workers and about 3 million of their wives and husbands and 600,000 of their dependent children.

There's No Place Like Home ...

... nobody loves you like your hometown merchant!

If we asked you, "to whom are you most important?", your answer would have to be... "Why, the people at home, of course!"

Have you shopped away from home recently? Did you feel like a stranger? Had to show 3 identifications before they'd cash your check? Gave your questions a brush-off, etc.?

Here at home, our businessmen are your neighbors and friends.

They're interested in your needs, work with you on local projects. You always come first with them because you're a home-town customer.

Why not shop at home more and, by adding to the trade volume, make our community stronger?

Free summer lunches to children at 3 sites here

The Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission will operate a summer lunch program for income-eligible children of Madison County.

Despite all the proposed cuts in federal programs, the summer lunch program is one of the programs that ducked the blade of "austerity," a spokesman said.

"This program is a continuation of the school lunch program and is designed to provide a nutritious meal to children during the summer when they are not attending school."

Three local sites will be operated five days a week, Monday through Friday, from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The meals will be provided free of charge and no child will be discriminated against because of race, handicap or national origin.

Quad-City sites are the Johnson-Dunbar Community Center, W. 3rd and Jackson

HOLLYWOOD STRIP

A divine change in lifestyle

By ALAN L. GANSBERG

HOLLYWOOD — "Because I like my privacy, that's why!" the Divine BETTE MIDLER yelped at a neighbor when asked why she carefully guards her new address.

Bette reportedly paid $950,000 for her cottage in the northern tip of Beverly Hills and will sink another half a million into renovations, much of which will be designed to turn the house into a hideaway.

"Do you know she's putting in about a dozen big trees," the neighbor shrugged. Reportedly, she's also gutted the bathroom and will put in an indoor hot tub so she can bathe her feet in the height of comfort — the star of "The Rose" has often said they're the favorite part of her body.

It's all a far cry from the one-bedroom flat she once had in New York's Greenwich Village, where the landlord used to love to turn off the hot water, she still claims.

Bette's planning many changes in her life — such as doing a film with no vocalizing — but she's going to keep her very conspicuous car, a white Porsche with license plates saying DIVINE. What else?

One of her new neighbors will be Hollywood's most famous personal managers, JAY BERNSTEIN, who recently taped a segment on himself for an upcoming installment of ABC's "20-20." Jay is best known for making FARRAH FAWCETT a household word, then turning the same trick with SUZANNE SOMERS.

And incidentally, don't feel sorry for Suzanne now that she's officially been given her release from "Three's Company." When she was still Jay's client, he negotiated a multimillion-dollar pact with CBS that guarantees the blonde star a series and variety specials once she's through with ABC. Look for the series in about a year.

The same goes for Bernstein client GIL GERARD. His NBC series, "Buck Rogers" is doomed, but the former star of "The Doctors" is still smiling. Seems he, too, has a CBS deal for a series. And it's said to be worth a cool $1 million.

It's official, at least for the time being — TANYA TUCKER and GLEN CAMPBELL will wed on Feb. 14, 1982, which is conveniently Valentine's Day. Meanwhile, no wedding bells are ringing for VICTORIA PRINCIPAL and ANDY GIBB, but they've both signed at least one paper together — the deed to a California ranch.

DOC SEVERINSEN was recently named vice president of a company that manufactures musical instruments, and for good reason. The late-night trumpeter has eight new designs on the drawing board for his favorite instrument. Severinsen says that trumpets are designed differently for players of varied ages and skills.

Who says DIANA ROSS isn't ambitious? At the recent Academy Awards she told the press that "I hope next time I see you I have one of those heavy things in my hands." Diana would love to find a good film property, but she's having trouble finding money to finance her return to the screen.

Question — who's the most durable continuous host of a network variety series? Answer — according to the next edition of the "Guinness Book of World Records" it's DICK CLARK, whose "American Bandstand" has been nationwide since August 5, 1957. That's 24 years, passing ED SULLIVAN's 23 years.

BUT, as long as we're counting, the real champ is BOB KEESHAN, who has been hosting "Captain Kangaroo" on CBS since Oct. 3, 1955. And LAWRENCE WELK has been on TV for more than 25 years, but he's disqualified because more than eight of those years have been in syndication, not network. These Guinness folks are very strict about their rules and regulations.

Solo success predicted for Brenda

By ROBIN WELLES

HOLLYWOOD — Background singers tend to be just that: gray figures careful not to draw any glitter from the star.

But sometimes they emerge to become stars in their own right — like Brooklyn-born Brenda Russell who did backup work for Barbra Streisand, Elton John, Bette Midler, Robert Palmer and Neil Sedaka.

Brenda went solo in 1978, and she admits that the spotlight shining directly on HER was terrifying.

"But fortunately," she said, "I was supported by friends."

Brenda is not yet a star of the first magnitude, but that liquid velvet voice should do the trick. She is especially effective with pop, rhythm and blues, and love ballads.

Her latest album for A and M is titled "Love Life," and songs range from the sultry "If You Love" to the bluesy "Thank You."

She wrote all of the songs, and is a fine poet — like, for instance, the "you sell color — I see a rainbow" line in the song, "Rainbow."

TESS — Movie Soundtrack (MCA) — Philippe Sarde wrote the background music for Roman Polanski's dramatic tale of life in 18th century England. He captured beautifully the texture of early English music and it merges smoothly with Polanski's camera magic. The soundtrack was performed by the London Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Carlo Savina.

GREG KIHN — Rock-inroll (Beserkley-Elektra) — Another high-energy outing by the San Francisco-spawned quintet that has steadily been picking up a national audience. Kihn said this LP was intended to "literally jump off the turntable at you." It does. All the power and spontaneity of an on-stage performance.

COMPLETE ARTIE SHAW — Volume V, 1941-42 (RCA) — Some fine things in this two-record set of songs recorded by the celebrated Big Band clarinetist. They include "Georgia on My Mind," "It Had to Be You," "Beyond the Blue Horizon," "Blues in the Night," "Rockin' Chair" and "St. James Infirmary Blues." Highlight of the LP is the two-part "Infirmary Blues" that stretches out for more than six minutes.

GLENN YARBROUGH — Just a Little Love (First American) — This is the singer who was featured in the Limelights back in the 1960s, and then went on his own for many years and achieved success with offbeat songs. He did one album of Rod McKuen's love songs. Then he dropped singing and went sailing the seven seas. It's been years since he recorded anything, and it's good to hear that familiar voice once again.

ED BRUCE — One to One (MCA) — Bruce is a fine, honest talent from Tennessee who projects the image — both musically and visually — of a leather-garbed frontier man. He's the composer of a hit song with one of the longest titles in existence: "Mammam Don't Let Your Babies Grow Up to Be Cowboys." Bruce sings some more of his own compositions on this LP, but also is equally effective with songs by Jesse Winchester and Charley Craig.

SPINNERS — Labor of Love (Atlantic) — One of the classier soul and rhythm and blues groups around. Funky beat and hypnotic repetition combine to produce a sultry atmosphere that you sometimes find in one of those glitter-and-chrome nightspots in the big city. Quintet has been around long enough to have it all together.

POLICY CHANGE

On May 14, 1980, just nine days after he had welcomed the illegal Cuban refugees with "open heart and open arms," President Carter changed his policy and opposed the private flotilla.
